THAW TRIAL OFF UNTIL MONDAY; NO WITNESSES HERE

Absence of Physicians and Nurses Aboard the Adriatic, Delayed by Storms, Forces Littleton to Ask Adjournment.

Harry K. Thaw's trial for the murder of Stanford White took a temporary halt to-day when his counsel, at the opening of the morning session, obtained an adjournment until Monday. Mr. Littleton's excuse was that witnesses bound from Europe have been delayed. They are on the Adriatic, reported anchored off Sandy Hook. It is impossible, he declared, to complete his hypothetical question until after their testi-

Or Is the Accumulation of a Gentle Fag WALDONF'S CHIEF in an Exclusive Restaurant Less Reprehensible Than Smoking There?

By Ethel Powers.

They have stopped women from smoking in public! Their excuse for doing this is public decency.

They say it is wrong for women to smoke in public places-that it is offensive to those who look on and detrimental to the character and dignity of the fair sex.

Who say and do this?

Why, who else but those lords of creation-men.

Perhaps they are right.

They are very wise and know lots of things-lots more than poor oman can know-about public decency and everything else.

But if man is so interested in-so solicitous-about weak, wayward woman, why doesn't he reform her altogether? Why does he stop her from a little evil like smoking in public when Women Smoke in Paris.

Having spent last summer in the rench capital and having visited all he best cafes, I must take issue with Elizabeth Jones, of No. 4342 Drexel im on that point. At the Ritz, for example, which is considered one of the most exclusive hotels in Paris and is friends to-day with the announcement patronized by the "swagger set" and the noblety, women are permitted to smoke. Women of the highest circles in Paris, grandes dames of the Russian and English noblity, and even of our four hurdred, are in the habit of indulging on the weed at tables in the state of the rintention to bring suit immediately for absolute divorce.
